Job Description

Job Title: Teacher of Classics

Job Purpose: To inspire, encourage and empower our students to achieve their very best in the Subject of Latin, Classical Civilisation and Classical Greek

Reporting Line: Head of Classics

Start Date: January 2026

Tenure: Maternity Cover, Full-time

Salary: Competitive – based on the Surbiton High School Pay Scale

The Classics department is a well-established and thriving department with high numbers of students wishing to study 1 or more of the 3 classical subjects on offer. We offer Classical Greek, Classical Civilisation and Latin at GCSE and A-level, taught by 6 members of staff. We have an excellent record of academic success and almost every year at least one pupil goes on to study a Classical subject at university.

We teach all pupils Latin in year 7, using the Cambridge Latin Course Book 1. In Year 8, those pupils who have chosen to continue with Latin, go on to the De Romanis 1 textbook. We teach Classical Civilisation in Key Stage 3, which is integrated into pupils' Latin lessons. At GCSE we offer Latin, Classical Greek and Classical Civilisation. Greek is offered ab initio in year 10. Pupils can continue all three subjects to A-level.

There is a real Classics community within the school. This is fostered by a range of co-curricular clubs run by our Classics staff, from year 7 Myth Makers to Senior Classics Society as well as the Classics Bake Off Competition. We enter Classical reading competitions and run an annual Ancient World Day for year 7. The department runs a number of exciting trips each year, including to the Ashmolean Museum, British Museum and Bath. We make the most of our location near London and take pupils to relevant theatre shows and events. We also run trips to Italy and Greece, allowing pupils (and staff!) to immerse themselves in the worlds we are studying.

This is a strong, successful and flourishing department that attracts students of all abilities and backgrounds. We look forward to welcoming another colleague who shares our passion for Classics and can support the department's ethos while a member of our team is away on maternity leave.
